

THE KEY OF G

A FILM BY ROBERT ARNOLD

Rochester Area Film Premiere

May 11 at 7:00 p.m.

Dryden Theatre, George Eastman House

THE KEY OF G is an award-winning feature documentary about disability, caregiving and interdependence. The film follows Gannet, a charismatic 22-year-old with physical and developmental disabilities, as he leaves his mother's home to share an apartment with a close-knit group of artists and musicians who support him, not only as paid caregivers, but also as friends. Together, they create a uniquely successful model of supported living and a compelling alternative to institutionalized care.

Join Gannet, his mother Amy, and Director Robert Arnold for a discussion following the film.

This event is free and open to the public. Please call (585) 276-3657 or e-mail transition@urmc.rochester.edu for more information or special accommodations. The film is open captioned, and a sign language interpreter will be provided for the discussion.

Sponsored by the Golisano Foundation and the University of Rochester, including the Strong Center for Developmental Disabilities, the Warner School of Education, the Rochester Disabilities Cluster, and the Office of University Disability Resources. Additional support provided by The Advocacy Center, the Midwestern Regional Transition Coordination Site, and the Midwest Regional Special Education Training and Resource Center (SETRC).
